

André Malraux Newsletter

November 2022

The André Malraux school, like the entire Lycée Charles de Gaulle, stands out for the diversity of its students. At André Malraux alone, we have students of 26 different nationalities from all (inhabited) continents . We are extremely proud of this!

Like the previous ones, this newsletter tells you about the life of our school. Pay special attention to the December diary at the end of the Newsletter. The end of 2022 promises some special moments.

South Kensington Kids Festival - SKKF

As part of the South Kensington Kids Festival, on Wednesday, November 16th and Thursday, November 17th, three youth literature authors, and not the least, came to give workshops at André Malraux.

Stephanie Blake taught the children of GS and CP how to draw "Simon", her most popular character.

Jarvis, read to PS and MS pupils the book The Boy with flowers in his hair. The pupils also created together an artwork that resembles the author's own creations. MS pupils have in turn written a story that they will send to the author!

SKKF (continued)

François Place showed the CM1 and CM2 different drawing techniques of which he holds the secret.

Here are some of the CM1 pupils' works following François Place's visit in class. What a great job!

The Tara Project

What is the Tara Foundation? It is a team of scientists who explore the oceans to raise awareness about sustainable development issues.

As part of an AEFE project, CM2 classes in French schools around the world will follow in the footsteps of these scientists, in virtual expeditions. Each stopover will be an opportunity to explore a sustainable development issue concerning that particular locality.

The CM2's flag

Before casting off, the CM2 class chose its course and imagined its own flag. The class even has a schooner in the classroom.

Here is the planned route:

Stop 1: Argentina - Ushuaia

Stop 2: Canada - Newfoundland

Stop 3: Chile - Easter Island

Stop 4: Ecuador - Galapagos

Stop 5: France - Clipperton

While waiting for news on our CM2's expedition, you can find information about the Tara Foundation on their website:
